COLONEL GEORGE S. HOWARD, USAF RETIRED
(1902 - 1995)

Colonel George S. Howard, United States Air Force retired, was primarily known for his contribution to the military band program. During the nineteen and one half years that he was commandant and conductor of the United States Air Force Band and Symphony Orchestra, he raised those organizations to international prominence. He is credited with originating the idea of using music as an international language to create better understanding between America and nations of the world. He took the USAF Band and Orchestra on ten international tours performing major concerts in fifty countries on five continents. He founded the Singing Sergeants, the Airmen of Note, The USAF Drum and Bugle Corps, the USAF Bagpipe Band, the WAF Band, and the Strolling Strings.

As Chief of Bands and Music for the Air Force, he established the USAF Bandsman School and became its first commandant. He controlled the musical destinies of more than two thousand bandsmen and set the standards for eighty three Air Force Bands. He established a career field for commissioned officers as directors of the Air Force Bands. This policy and ladder of progression is in effect today.

He was born in Reamstown, Pennsylvania. He graduated from the Conway Military Band School, Ithaca Conservatory, Ohio Wesleyan University, New York University and the Chicago Conservatory earning the following degrees: AB, AM, B. Mus. and Mus.D. In 1985, he received an Honorary Doctor of Music Degree from Ithaca College and in 1986 he was elected Honorary Life President of the prestigious American Bandmasters Association.

Prior to entering the military, he was director of the Band, Orchestra and Chorus School at Penn. State University. Colonel Howard established the Citation of Musical Excellence Award to encourage professional growth and excellence in military concert bands.

Colonel Howard passed away on September 18, 1995.

PURPOSE

To identify and recognize active duty and reserve military concert bands that have demonstrated particularly significant high standards of musical excellence in concert under the current conductor.

ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

The band must be an active duty or reserve military concert band.

The band must perform standard concert band literature.

The band's instrumentation must be suitable for literature performed.

Bands are eligible for an additional award after a new director assumes leadership and has been in place for at least a year or after three years since a previous award under the same director.

All foreign military concert bands are eligible.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

All materials are to be submitted electronically as pdf, mp3 or WAV files to the email address:
sousahowardaward@gmail.com

Submission deadline is 20 November.

Military band directors send an application letter directly to the committee chair with the following materials:

1. Concert programs of recent concerts directed by the current conductor.
2. Current audio studio/concert recordings if available.
3. One video recording with three works from a recent concert performance directed by the current conductor.
 - a. The first selection is to be a major concert band composition from the standard repertoire with the camera positioned at the back of the stage focused on the conductor.
 - b. The second piece is to be standard concert band piece with the camera positioned in the audience to show the entire band.
 - c. The third selection is to be a Sousa march with the camera positioned in either place.

SELECTION AND AWARD PROCESS

The selection committee meets annually to evaluate application materials. The meeting will be held prior to the MidWest band and Orchestra Clinic. Submission deadline is November 20.

If selected, the award will be sent to the band director's commanding officer or other appropriate official for presentation. If not selected, Committee suggestions will be communicated directly to the band director for use in program strengthening for a future consideration.
